Hehe! My name is Rika Tanaka and I'm writing the story for "Kilala Princess". This is the final book! The times I spent with Kilala, Rei, and the princesses were really exciting and dreamy!

Kind hearted Snow White, free-wheeling Ariel, positive and optimistic Cinderella, elegant and beautiful Aurora, intelligent Belle, loyal true to herself and, someone yearning to see the outside world. Each girl is unique and I really enjoyed writing this story. Come to think of it, I may have been traveling with Kilala through the world of princesses myself!

After finding all seven gems, Kilala finally becomes the seventh princess. The story reaches the end here, but Kilala's life as a princess has only just begun. I'm sure she will live a really unique (if the word princess life kind of scary?) Good luck to the new Princess Kilala!!

By the way, "Kilala Princess" is going to be novelized! You might just be able to meet a Rei and Kilala who are slightly different than the ones I have took forward to it!

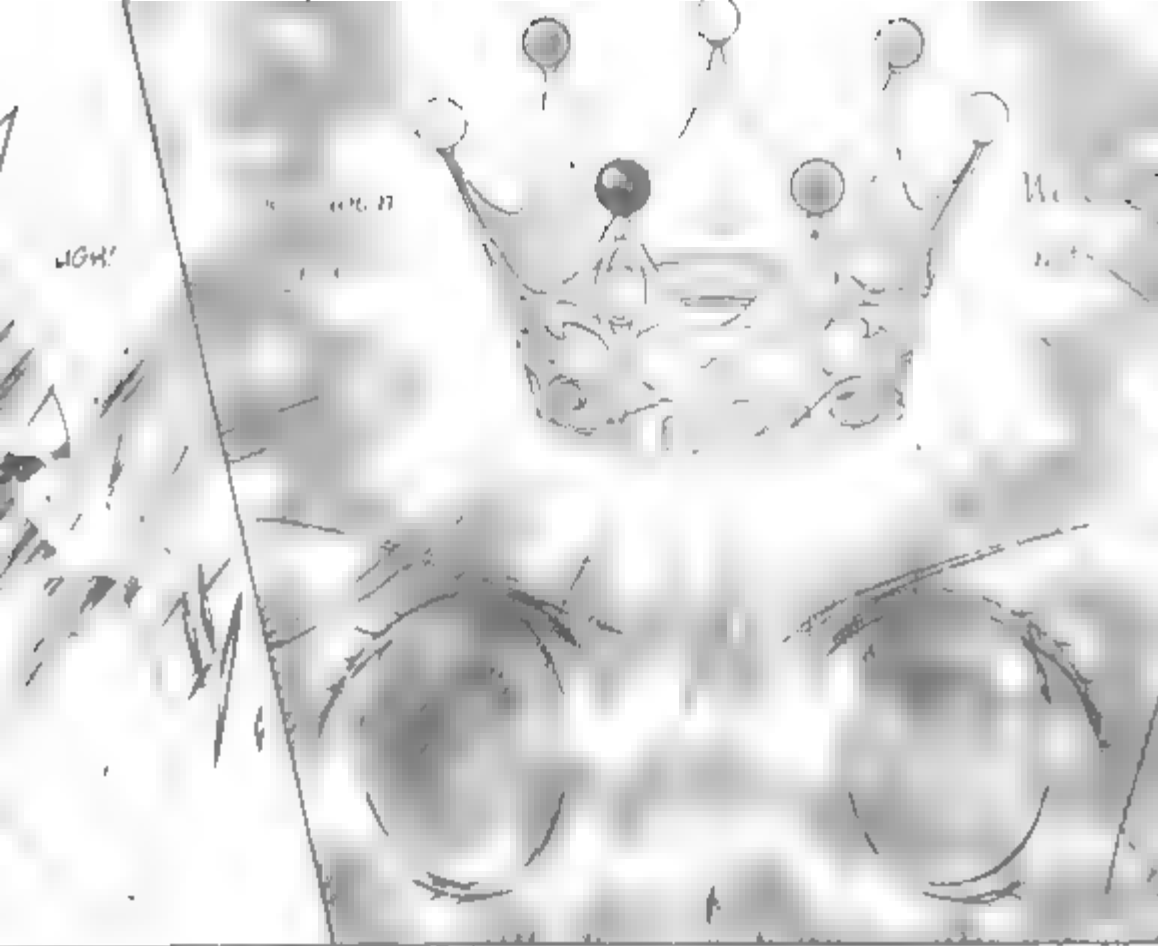

Finally, I would like to thank Ms. Nao Kodaka, Ms. Kayo Isomura from the editorial office, and everyone who put in their best for "Kilala Princess". Thank you very much!

A black and white manga-style illustration. The scene is filled with smoke or steam, creating a hazy atmosphere. In the upper left, a rectangular object, possibly a piece of debris or a sign, is falling diagonally. Inside this rectangle, two small figures are visible: one appears to be a boy with dark hair, and the other is a smaller figure, possibly a girl. To the right of this falling object, a character with curly hair and a dark top is standing, looking towards the falling object. The background is filled with wisps of smoke and some faint, curved lines suggesting movement or sound effects. In the lower right, there are sharp, angular lines that could represent falling debris or blades of grass. The overall composition is dynamic, with a strong diagonal element from the falling rectangle.

Hello, I'm Nao Kodaka

We're finally at the last volume of "Kilala Princess"!

I hope you've enjoyed the story of the seventh princess, Kilala, which has a slightly different touch compared to the six Disney princesses.

I spent three full years with Kilala. (Much longer if I add the years for preparation...) She was just a girl dreaming to become a princess, but she has grown by learning and overcoming many things. At the same time, I've learned many things, too. I'm just so happy that Rei and Kilala had a happy ending. I'm really, really glad!!

Without the support of many people, I would never have been able to make it this far. I want to thank, from the bottom of my heart, the people who have supported me and all of you who read the story to the end!

Thank you so very much!
I hope to see you all again... somewhere, someday.

KODAKA
NAO
